Attend the Recent Earthquake Shocks at Tehuantepec.

A MEXICAN CITY DESTROYED

By the Seismic Disturbances-The Eruprors of the Situation-It Belches Forth Steam and Dust Thousands of Feet in the Air-Not a Building Left Standing, and 10,000 People Homeless.

NEW YORK, June 28,-"My beloved ountry is again visited with the terrors of earthquakes, wrote a native of Te huantenec. Mexico, to a friend in this city in a letter received a few days ago. A few days later came a letter saying:

The terrible earthquakes continue. They are increasing. City nearly destroyed." And now comes the news by telegraph from Oaxaca that not a single building is left standing. Taking the two letters sent from Tehuantepec, one can glean something of the horrors which the natives have suffered. The correspondent says:
"The terrors of our earthquakes cannot even be imagined by one who has never experienced the sense of utter helpicssness and horror that invades the stoutest heart when he feels mother earth rocking and tossing beneath him like a storm lashed sea and listens to wful roars and groans wrung from her in her travail. One feels a veritable ship dancing on waves sure to waft him of confidence and faith leaves him, and he is cut ciean adrift from everything hat he has ever trusted. Upon what element of nature can he rely, where look for succer, to what cling, when old Mother Earth forsakes stability and lewes have a pranks as these? It is simply insettling and teerorizing to even the coolest and the bravest.

Why, I recall an experience of ten years ago in the Nacori district of Sonora, Mexico, at the time the town of Bavispe was so nearly destroyed. We were riding quietly down a broad canada one still summer afternoon, a friend and myselt. The friend was an old frontiersman, a man I have more than once seen under fire cool and calm as if at a dinner, a man who knows not fear of lead or sicel. Suddenly without warning, without the least phenomena to suggest its comins, the ground oscillated and rolled beneath us, and barely fifty feet in front of us the earth split sounder with a roar, a dense cloud of dust rose high in the air, and a great chasm three feet wide yawned acroes our path. Our horses were instantly thrown flat, where they lay trembling as if in death agony. What I felt I will not pretend to try to describe.

The seismic disturbances began with the eruption of the new volcano to the north of the city. The eruption was accompanied by heavy earthquake shocks. Lasting from five to forty seconds, these shocks had both a shaking or horizontal motion. The shocks have continued at short intervals ever since. Their violence is such that men and nulmals are thrown to the ground, buildings wrenched and strained until their walls crumble, steeples come immbling down and the people are confronted with certain ruin and possible death. Some, indeed, were killed in the first disturbance, and life indoors became impossible. People instantly fled for their lives to the open country, and for days lay shelterless and suffering for food. But later provisions and tents were obtained at great risk from the wreck of their ruined homes.

"Life in the hill country anywhere is made especially dangero reddish-brown tongues of lava that lick up and consume everything in their path.

The present earthquakes of Tehuantepec differ from other notable seismic disturbances in the same region, in that the shocks are accompanied by loud detonations. At Guanamato many years ago terrible subterranean thunders were heard for a month without the least tremor of earthquake being felt, while the destruction of Riobamba in Ecuador was accomplished in absolute silence, notwithstanding the vertical shock was so great that the boules of people were thrown across the river to the top of the hill of La Culla, more than three hundred feet high.

The report of the scientific commission sent by President Diaz to Tehuanrecent seismic disturbances on this continent is awaited with great interest.

To-day's market for securities was marked by the large volume of the transactions and the great animation of the dealings as well as by the continued strong upwara movement of prices. The marked exceptions to the greatest strength were the active stocks which have been recent leaders of the advance and in which there was heavy realizing to-day. This realizing was to a large extent by the professional element and represented simply a transfer of holdings from stocks which have moved freely upward to others that have lagged in the advance, their calculations evidently being that the advance of the laggards is merely deferred. Such a transfer was made on a very large scale from Burlington to St. Paul. The latter stock has not moved as freely as the other grangers and Burlington's relative price has come up from below that of St. Paul to several points above it. This has led professional traders to take their profits in Burlington and to transfer their holdings to St. Paul. The jump in the price of St. Paul at the opening invited some tion was a noticeable feature. The dealings were disseminated all through the inactive list and even the soft coal roads, whose values are at the lowest ebb as a group of any on the list, came in for a share of attention, Hooking Valley enjoying a rise from 2½ to 3%. Sugar shuwed very aggressive strength all day and gained 3% net. Chicavo Gaswas also very strong and advance? 2%. The only peculiarities of the market otherwise were the stocks whose prices declined. Net gains were the rule and extended to a point or over in Brooklyn Rapid Transit 2½, Lead, General Electrict, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 7. Colorado Fuel lost 1¼, with subsequent recovery. Illinois Steel declined ¼ without a raily on account of prospective labor troubles. Governments were quiet but displayed a firm tone. The sales were $2,000. The Evening Post's London financial cablegram:

With the practical conclusion of the jubilee celebration, stock exchange business is increasing. The tendency at the moment is ummistabily toward speculation in Americans and Kaffirs. Buils on English rails are realizing and going to those markets. At the same time it must not be supposed that the English public is really dealing largely in either market. In the first place, attention is still distracted by the jubilee and in addition, the people have been so bitten in addition, the people have been so bitten in still distracted by the jubilee and in addition, the people have been so bitten in still distracted by the jubilee and in addition, the people have been so bitten in still distracted by the jubilee and in addition, the people have been so bitten in still distracted by the jubilee and in addition, the people have been so bitten in still distracted by the the tense unit and the tense is a serious point to be considered.

First class professionals, however, are buying Americans and Kaffirs boildy. The former are bought on the bellef that trade in the United States has really turned the corner, while the fact that nearly all the stocks are on the American side of the ocean, with a scarcity here, favors the notion that the American holders mean to keep up the prices. The close was nearly at the best.

A feature was a sharp rise in Argentine provincial and other hitherto neglected bonds.

The Paris bourse was uncertain, but the close was better, although the market is disturbed by the apprisach of the sectionment. The Berlin market was firm after a perfect of dullness.

close Saturday was 72%@72½c, was quoted at the opening to-day all the way from 72%71½c. In five minutes thereafter it had fallen to 69½c and before the expitation of the first half hour it was up again to 72¢ for an instant. Ordinarily such violent and rapid fluctuations would be to the accompaniment of an immense business, but on this occasion the quantity that changed hands was by no means heavy and strangely out of proportion with the noise over it in the pit. There were large quantities of wheat for sale at the opening, but one would buy and not until 69½c had been quoted did any support materialize. As to whether the break marked the collapse of the alleged corner opinions differed agood many holding to the belief which was strengthened by the fact that little or no wheat was offered by those who are supposed to be interested in the deal that it was nothing but a shaking off of the small fry. At any rate it had that effect. September wheat did not participate to any great extent in the opening weakness of July. It was wanted at the opening at about a ½c advance to 66½ 66% ca few lots selling at 66½c. It declined to 55% 656%c, when July was giving indications of going all to pieces and it recovered to 65½c, when that fear was allayed for the moment. The crowd were made susceptible to the panic which afterward selzed them, by the news there was in possession of equally favorable. The market had ruled comparatively dull after the subsidence of its first explosion until about an hour from the close, when it became fitfully active and again weak. Some of the later weakness was caused by a cablegram from a well known Liverpool house, which said Russian wheat and rye crops would be abundant and Danublan wheat equal in quantity, but deficient in quality from last year.

The July price appeared to be pegged at 70½c, near the end, but September got down to 65½c, and closed at 65½6 65½c, liver the end, but September got down to 65½c, and closed at 65½6 for the ruled firm during the early part of the session shorts being inclined to cover notwithstanding generally favorable weather. The weakness displayed by wheat later in the day caused more liberal offerings of corn and the advance was ultimately lost. Local receipts amounted to 342 cars. The visible supply decreased 45,000 bushess. September opened a shade higher at 2623½c, advanced to 26%c, and declined to 5c, where it closed.

Outs were easy and ruled a shade lower, with quite a good bushess transacted. Selling was free, the favorable weather being perhaps the most important factor. A feature was the relative weakness of July. Local receipts were posted at 34 cars. The visible supply decreased 514,000 bushels. September opened unchanged at 18c, sold between 18615½c and 17%c, closing at 18c.

There was a big trade in provisions, with a great deal of important covering.

There was a big trade in provisions, with a great dead of important covering. Firm yard prices made shorts anxious to cover. They had great difficulty in doing so, and sharp advances were scored, but at the extreme figures packers were more disposed to sell and some reaction followed. The feeling was stendy at the close, with September pork 254274c higher at 47 82549 7 55; September lard 20c higher at 34 23; and September lard 20c higher at 34 23; and September lard 30c higher at 34 625.
